A unique learning experience

The Oxford pre-Master's courses are offered by the Department for Continuing Education and are taught at Rewley House in the heart of Oxford. Aimed at students who intend to pursue Master's degree studies at leading British universities, they combine academic study across a number of disciplines with an intensive English language enhancement programme.

Our courses not only help students to communicate confidently and fluently in spoken and written English, but also to develop superior analytical, critical thinking and presentation skills. Students also learn how to engage successfully with peers and tutors in an intellectually stimulating international study environment.

Applicants should note that successful completion of our pre-Master's course does not automatically guarantee progression to Master's degree courses at Oxford for which separate application is necessary. Over the past few years, our students have gone on to take Master's degrees at the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Bath, St Andrews, Warwick, and also at King's College London and the LSE.

THE BENEFITS OF AN OXFORD PRE-MASTER'S COURSE

AT OXFORD, WE TAKE A HOLISTIC APPROACH TO YOUR INTELLECTUAL AND PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT. WE APPRECIATE THAT LEARNING TAKES PLACE THROUGH VARIOUS CHANNELS INCLUDING ACTIVE PARTICIPATION IN SEMINAR AND TUTORIAL DISCUSSION, AS WELL AS MORE INFORMALLY OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM OR LECTURE THEATRE ENVIRONMENT.

Preparing you for success

Graduate success in the UK depends on many factors including a high degree of proficiency in academic English and the mastery and active synthesis of an integrated platform of non-linguistic skills, abilities and knowledge. These include independent inquiry, critical and analytical thinking and intercultural awareness.

You will be encouraged to take responsibility for your own learning through the acquisition of new skills for self-management and will learn how to work effectively in teams. You will also be encouraged to benefit from the unique resources and opportunities offered by a world-class university.

Academic and Personal Support

Whether you are studying overseas for the first time or have already studied in the UK, we offer you a first-rate academic and personal support network to help you to get the most from your time at Oxford.

You will benefit from regular contact with your tutors, course director and programme administrator, as well as from a college attachment which will enable you to make the most of opportunities for formal and informal interaction with peers and academics in a vibrant and intellectually stimulating international learning community.

Throughout your course, you will learn about social behaviour, customs and values in the UK and will also explore ways of enhancing your intercultural communication skills.

Independent Learning Skills

From day one, we will teach you how to think independently. You will learn how to:

- develop effective self-management skills
- prioritise tasks and structure your own learning
- make optimal use of your time and resources
- identify your preferred learning style
- reflect positively on your learning
- empower yourself through increased personal mastery

Critical Thinking Skills

We will introduce you to the expectations of graduate work in the UK by helping you practise and develop your critical thinking skills on an ongoing basis to enable you to:

- find and evaluate reliable sources of evidence
- develop a questioning approach to your reading
- evaluate differing viewpoints objectively
- recognise assumptions
- identify flaws in an argument
- develop effective analysis and argument

You will also develop and improve your academic reading skills in order to analyze, reflect, evaluate, and synthesize the different types of texts you read in an efficient and effective manner.

Academic Writing skills

You will benefit from a weekly academic writing class, as well as from a weekly individual academic writing tutorial. This will teach you how you might use your reading in your writing and allow you rapidly to improve your study and writing skills and enable you to receive ongoing personalised feedback on the development of your academic writing and critical thinking skills.

To help you monitor your personal progress in both areas, your essays will be returned to you in duplicate. One will contain feedback on your academic performance in terms of argument, critical thinking and research and the other will offer detailed analysis of your English language writing skills in an academic context. You will then discuss both sets of feedback with your tutor and establish personal learning objectives to advance your critical thinking and academic writing skills.

Transferable Skills

Our pre-Master's course will equip you with valuable transferrable skills which can be used beyond university and which are also highly valued by employers. These include:

- communication skills
- organisational skills
- interpersonal skills.
- Intercultural communication skills
- presentation skills

FAQs

If you are considering applying for an Oxford pre-Master's course in 2013, you will naturally have many questions to ask. We thought that you might find it helpful if we highlighted our responses to students' most frequently asked questions. Also, if you visit our website at www.conted.ox.ac.uk/198 you'll find many more questions and answers.

If, by any chance, you have a question that does not appear in our FAQs, we'd be delighted to answer it so please feel free to email us at judith.arneil@conted.ox.ac.uk

Is there a 'typical' pre-Master's student?

Not really. Our students come from different walks of life; from recent graduates to working professionals. Most are between the ages of 21 and 35.

Which countries do students come from?

For 2012-2013, our students come from Brazil, Canada, China, D.R. Congo, France, Japan, India, Pakistan, Philippines, Qatar, Russia, Saudi Arabia, Sri Lanka, Syria, Ukraine, UK and USA.

What is the average class size?

Class size differs from course to course. In principle, there are no more than eight students in an English language class. For academic seminars and lectures the maximum class size is 25 though classes are often much smaller. For practical classes, there are normally no more than ten students in each group.

Can you give me advice on visas?

The university has a special 'Student Information and Advisory Service' which deals specifically with all student visa enquiries and which can give you up-to-the-minute information.

Do I have to arrange my own college attachment?

There is no need for you to arrange your own college attachment as we do this for you.

I already have a Master's degree. May I still apply for a place on a pre-Master's course?

Yes. Many of our students already hold Master's degrees.

My English is fluent. Do I have to take the English language module?

If you have been educated in English, have recently completed a university degree that was taught entirely English or have an overall IELTS score of at least 7.5, you will not be required to follow the English language module. Instead, you will be required to follow a number of lecture series in the Central University.

What happens after I submit my application?

As soon as we receive your application, we get back in touch to arrange a telephone interview with you at a mutually convenient time. After your interview, you will have an opportunity to ask any questions you may have about the course or about studying at Oxford.

When will I find out the result of my application?

We accept applications on a rolling admissions basis, so you may submit your application at any time before 28 June 2013. We will normally contact you about one week after your telephone interview with our decision.

Can I pay my fees in instalments?

Unfortunately, we are unable to arrange payment of fees by instalment.

Is it possible to visit the University before making a pre-Master's course application?

Absolutely. If you would like to arrange a visit to the Department, we would be delighted to see you. Visits can normally be arranged throughout the year.

Can you put me in touch with former pre-Master's course students?

Yes. Many of our former students have said that they would be pleased to communicate with prospective students.

At which universities have former pre-Master's students gone on to study for Master's Degrees?

In the last few years, our students have gone on to study for Master's degrees at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, as well as Bath, King's College London, LSE, St Andrews and Warwick.
